

Retail Systems

February 2006

Inca excels

Inca Software is releasing Inca Planning, a solution designed to remove the business risks associated with using spreadsheets for key performance related activities such as budgeting and forecasting.

Inca Planning aims to provide a saving on licensing costs when compared to other planning tools and allows users to make rapid changes to planning models by adding new products, geographies and customer groups.

Built on .NET and using SQL/Server, it integrates easily with other business applications, allowing inputs and exports from Excel for ad hoc analysis and reporting.